

Over ten years ago, the world of beads and I were introduced serendipitously.

My father-in-law passed away and my husband and I wanted to gift his mother with a needle worked depiction of their home of fifty-plus years.

On the way to purchase canvas and threads, a new storefront piqued my curiosity.

Within a couple of hours, assortments of beads and books were in tow.

Needless to say the beads took over the project.

The six months of meditative hours spent learning and working with my newly found medium, not only made gentle the mourning, but also changed my life.

The artistry of creating beadwork designs became my passion, all consuming, and transitioned into my vocation. Most days are spent architecting designs, discovering new techniques, and mastering the entire process.

KEISER
DESIGNS

Beadwork integrates the old, the new, and beyond. Interactive narratives, with surprising interiors, unique color combinations, and tactility attained from endless layers of detail, best describe my original works.

Architected designs emerge, as little individual “bead” universes are soulfully stitched one-bead-at-a-time, in the spirit of uniting hearts, transcending time, and paying homage to creatives who came before.

Early morning hours coax forth from the core of my being designs fully realized.

During the meditative process, the Observer and the observed become one...

A Journey for Life!
